General Comments
The children get dropped off outside in the morning, so everyone was on the playground. Children were engaged in play with their friends, independently, and with educators. The space provides opportunities for risk taking, imagination, climbing, swinging, observing nature, dressing up, reading books, engaging in art activities and much more. Documentation was posted in frames throughout the playground with children's photos and experiences with links to the curriculum. There were several gardening boxes with cucumbers, carrots, and potatoes. Documentation was evident within the centre in the front entryway, the halls, and each classroom. Children's artifacts were posted, prompts and charts posted, and the daily routine and evacuation plans were evident in each room with other visual reminders and learning. Educators were observed engaging in play and discussions with children, providing opportunities to problem solve, and encouraging independent and group play. Several educators gave hugs to children, when requested and comforted children. A fire truck visited the centre this morning and the firefighters did a presentation and allowed the children to see the fire truck. Children were encouraged to ask questions and observe the fire truck equipment at their own pace as some children showed some hesitation. Educators continued to discuss their visit afterwards and extend with fire hats.
