General Comments
The school age children prepared for outside by cleaning up and getting their outdoor clothes on. An extra educator arrived to help with the transition to outside and bus pickups. There is an outdoor classroom space located at the bottom of the playground where many of the older children went. One educator stays in this area playing with the children as they build forts and structures. The educators found the children are collaborating more and enjoying time outside in this space. I suggested allowing the children to document some of their structures, plans for building and ideas.
