General Comments

When I arrived at the center the children were engaged in lego and building blocks. The plan for the afternoon was a walk in the forest to check on the fort they have been working on. They brought a basket to collect interesting materials to add to their craft section. On the way back they found a big puddle and had a great time running and jumping in it. Once they returned back to the center the operator had a sewing activity ready for the children. The operator actively participates in activities with the children. She asks the children many open-ended questions to create conversation and discussion. The operator demonstrates an abundance of positive guidance and patience with the children. Everything was in compliance during the visit.
