General Comments The younger children were outside this morning playing in the new snow. The infants loved making new footprints, jumping in the water from the ice and climbing through the tube set up. Ages 2 to 5 were playing hide and seek, sliding down the slide, playing with balls, walking around in the snow and making a small snowperson with the 4/5's educator. A good variety of outdoor materials were present and accessible. The infant space had a variety of materials at their level including soft blocks, face magnets, soft mats and climbing blocks, balls and other items, Children were enjoying a story with the educator and then exploring their room. The school age children are very independent and were engaged in board games and art materials in the morning and changing to more building and imaginary play in the afternoon. The school age children have brought helmets and skates to enjoy the local outdoor rink this afternoon as well as sliding. Documentation was evident throughout the centre and included photos, art creations and pictures, learning stories and children's responses to invitations. The children in the preschool room are measuring their height today with How many snowflakes tall are you? The children in the 2/3's room finished up lunch and then played a few minutes before reading and story time. The educator was very energetic getting the children involved while reading the book, Say Zoop. The children loved getting involved by touching the book, repeating the sounds and making the motions. After reading the first book, the educator gave children the choice of a song and they chose ABC's and then the educator chose Daddy Finger. The children asked for a second book and the educator read it with the finger puppet provided.
