General Comments

A renewal inspection occurred on September 29, 2026. Children were observed arriving from school and independently transitioning into their designated groups while educators completed attendance and greeted the children. Four children were observed creating "fingernails" using popsicle sticks, others were playing pool, while several children chose to read in the quiet area. The quiet area was furnished with wicker furniture and a variety of books displayed on low shelving for independent use.

As previously discussed with the Quality Assurance Monitor during the last monitoring inspection, materials within the dramatic play area were depleted. To further enhance this learning space a variety of open-ended materials such as play food, dishes, pots and pans, dolls, dress-up clothing, puppets, telephones, notepads, cash registers, grocery items/kitchen set, and household props to be added to encourage imaginative play.

In the middle room, an educator was observed actively participating in a painting activity alongside the children, providing support and encouraging creativity. Board games were available; however, several games were noted to have missing pieces, limiting their usability.

Handwashing procedures were observed when children arrived at the facility, supporting healthy hygiene practices. The parent information board was current and displayed required information, including previous inspection reports, emergency contact information, and up-to-date fire drill records. All staff files were observed and complete as well as five children's files.
