General Comments

Upon arrival, I was signed into a visitor log and my temperature was taken. COVID precautions are being followed and I saw mask use and handwashing. I noted that the center appeared clean. School arrivals and the recording of attendance are well set up by the educators and is very organized. After arriving, the children wash their hands, have a snack and then participate in free play.

There are a variety of age-appropriate materials and activities for the children in both groups. The children today chose to play with lego, to draw, color and make crafts, to do puzzles, play board games and memory games, play with action figures and dolls, trains and cars. The children all seemed to enjoy their chosen activities. All materials are accessible to the children.

There was one child who appeared to be ill, and the educators followed all health protocols. They called the parents in a timely manner, and they had the child sit away from the other children while waiting for their parents to pick them up. Potential illness forms were used and filled out properly.

I saw positive child guidance during the visit. The educators were skilled at setting limits, giving clear direction, and using gentle reminders, encouragement, and active listening. The educators were engaged in activities with the children and provided adequate supervision. I also saw the educators demonstrate patience, empathy and kindness to the children.

The center appears to be running well, and there are no concerns during this visit.
