General Comments

Children were finishing lunch and moving into other activities upon licensing staff's arrival. Educators set out coloring, board games and cards. This is an active group of children, and the room is set up to allow room for dancing, stretching and other games. There are also cozy areas which include a couch, rocking chair and other comfortable seating.

Purposeful planning is posted on a calendar and also written on the whiteboard so children can see the activities for each afternoon. Today's activity was building a volcano. Staff had materials organized and prepared. Multiple tables allowed for children to spread out and work in groups. Educators helped children and shared in the enthusiasm of the science experiment with the volcanoes that is planned for Friday.

Educators remained engaged with the children throughout the afternoon. They participated in drawing and playing games. Positive child guidance was observed. Educators were heard using positive comments, a low voice and speaking to children on their level.

While school-aged children are not required to play in a fenced area, the outdoor space is all fenced. The gate is not latching properly and is being closed with a rope. Please ensure this is fixed. Children played soccer, capture the flag, and basketball. Others played on the swings and sat on the structures with their friends.

Child files were verified, and educators are documenting all reportable and non-reportable incidents properly.

Staff files were complete and organized.
