General Comments Children were involved in an activity when I arrived. They had large pieces of paper on two tables and the opportunity to use gel pens and stencils to create a collaborative piece. The children enjoyed tracing their hands and their friend's hands. Evidence of documentation was evident throughout the centre through photographs, surveys, experiments, and learning stories. Surveys of favorite apples and cheese as well as connections to the curriculum from outside play highlight the learning. A border of children's photos are posted around the room showing indoor and outdoor play. The children enjoyed play outside today and tried out a snow-filled tunnel a little hesitant at first. Three new feeders for birds and squirrels have been hung and children watched as they were filled. The educators asked the children lots of questions about what animals they thought would be visiting. One child suggested an elephant would visit to eat the peanuts. The educators are very kind and responsive to the children. They give them lots of reminders of transition times and plenty of time to respond.
