General Comments
A Monitoring Inspection was completed this afternoon. The school aged children were observed arriving at the facility, getting off their school bus. Administrator showed QAM around the morning preschool space. The preschool classroom had several well-defined learning and play centers- dramatic play, reading area, building, science, arts and crafts, etc. Administrator stated that the children are presently interested in police officers and jails. A homemade jail cell was observed, and a pretend police station with desk, phone, tickets, and pretend coffee was also observed. This morning's art project was observed drying on the counter. The children had made monsters out of yard, glue, and transparent plastic. The school aged children were observed outside, taking part in a variety of activities - basketball, monkey bars, drawing, swings, and exploring the wooden area. The school aged rooms were observed while the school aged children played outside. Rooms contained several well-defined learning and play areas. Several forms of documentation were observed - children's artwork, learning stories, and photos. Parent Board observed and all required documentation present. Positive child guidance techniques were observed - educators setting reasonable limits and guidelines that make sense to the children, educators preparing children for transitions, and educators offering choices and assisting children in decision-making.
