General Comments

The preschool children were just waking up from nap, and the afterschool children were arriving. The educators were observed gently waking up the children by rubbing their back and talking to them. The children washed their hands and got ready for outdoor play. During outdoor play the two-and three-year old children were observed playing with trucks and digging in the gravel and snow. Walking on the balance beam. The afterschool children were on the school playground digging in the snow, building snow fort and playing on the monkey bars and slide. The four-year-old group were on a field trip to the forest, where they were sliding and running on the hill and playing on a large fallen tree. Children's artwork, learning stories and family photos are posted in the classrooms. Only positive child guidance was observed during the visit.
