General Comments

A Monitoring Inspection took place on September 11, 2024.

Children were observed during indoor free play and snacktime. They appeared engaged in their activities, showcasing interest in various aspects of their environment.

Educators shared that the children are currently enthusiastic about the transition to fall, frequently discussing activities such as being back at preschool and bringing elements of the outdoors into the classroom. Educators have actively integrated themselves and their interests into their documentation, contributing to the learning environment.

The overall setup of the rooms was inviting, with materials arranged in a way that encouraged children to engage in play. The facility was well-equipped with a varied supply of age-appropriate equipment, materials, books, and toys. Well-defined learning and play areas were noted, along with several displays of children's artwork throughout the facility. All toxic products, including chemical cleaners, were securely locked and inaccessible to children. Educators were noted for extending the curriculum outdoors and making concerted efforts to integrate the natural world into indoor learning.
