General Comments

A monitoring inspection occurred today.

Upon arrival at the centre, the Inspector observed the children participating in outside play. Children were observed riding balance bikes, playing with trucks, pretending to have a picnic with plates, cups, dirt, sticks, leaves and cutting apples that had fallen from the tree in the play yard.

In the inside play area, the Inspector observed the children having their morning snack, while actively engaged in a story time with the children. Educators were observed during snack time showing children how to open their snacks and encouraging them to try on their own. Once the child opened their snack, it was observed Educators giving the children praise for their accomplishments. The children were also observed playing games, painting pictures, and playing "store" with their peers.

The Educators indicated that the children participating in an apple tasting last week, which was based on an interest of fallen apples in the play yard. The educators purchased different types of apples, and with the parental permission, gave the children pieces of apples to try. This was observed documented and displayed on the wall of the learning environment.

In the learning environment it was also observed that the educators had created story stones, and the children were observed using these to tell the story of the "Hungry Caterpillar".

Two staff files were reviewed and verified complete.

Educators were observed speaking kindly and appropriately to the children and redirecting using positive child guidance techniques.
