General Comments When QAM arrived, children were engaged in a variety of activities throughout the learning environment. Several children were completing multiple puzzles with an educator, while others were playing with cars in different areas of the room. A separate group participated in dramatic play, pretending to feed babies with support from another educator. Additional children were engaged in craft activities using a range of materials. Documentation displayed on the walls was current and accurately reflected recent learning experiences. Educators were actively engaged with the children and consistently demonstrated positive child guidance practices. The parent board, child-to-staff ratios, incident reports, and fire drill records were reviewed and found to be accurate and up to date.
