General Comments Upon QAM's arrival in the afternoon, Rooms 3, 4, and 5 were engaged in nap and quiet-time routines. Children who were sleeping were observed resting on cots with appropriate spacing between them. Children who were awake were engaged in quiet activities, including playing with Magna-Tiles and colouring. Educators maintained supervision of both sleeping and awake children while completing routine cleaning and preparing invitations and learning experiences for the children to engage with following rest time. Documentation was displayed throughout the learning environments, and an appropriate variety and quantity of materials were accessible to support children's play, exploration, and learning. QAM also observed Room 17 in the outdoor play area. Children were actively engaged in physical play, including chasing one another and jumping and playing on the wooden structure. QAM spoke with administration regarding the opportunity to enhance the outdoor learning environment by encouraging educators to bring a variety of materials outdoors for children to explore during outdoor play. Examples discussed included art materials, bubbles, music, books, trucks, and cars. Providing additional materials outdoors may support a broader range of interests, play experiences, and opportunities for exploration. QAM also reviewed staff files, incident reports, fire drill documentation, and the parent board. All documentation reviewed was complete, current, and up to date.
