General Comments
On the day of my visit the center was full of activity. The 3 year old group was having fun with a pretend camp fire in the classroom. The infants were having a bit of free play time before getting ready for outdoor play time. The 4-5 group was having story and puzzle time while a few other children were playing with dinosaurs. The children showed me the Christmas gifts they have been making this week. Snow globes, wooden snowflakes and mistletoe. The other groups were in the outdoor play space running and digging in the dirt. Each educator has started a journal in which they right daily notes of the activities they have been completed in the classrooms. The educators are working as team and are engaged with the children during play, story telling and conversation.
