General Comments Upon licensing staff arrival, the children in the Chicken Coop room were all sitting at the table having a snack. The educator was sitting at the table with the children and was observed opening the snack items. After their snack, the children got ready to go play outside. Licensing staff saw evidence of purposefully planned activities as there was webbing and new learning stories were posted on the walls. The children's latest artwork was displayed on the walls throughout the center. Children's personal items were neatly organized in bins and labeled with their names. Items in the classrooms were labeled in multiple languages and were placed on open shelves allowing the children to easily access all materials. Pictures of buildings in the community and the children's families were represented throughout the facility. Natural materials such as branches, rocks, flowers are also present in all the classrooms. Educators were engaged in the children's activities such as planting flower seeds, reading, and playing with various materials sitting at the child's level and asking open ended questions to create a conversation. Licensing staff observed proper diaper changing procedures completed by the educators. As the children come back from playing outside, educators were observed doing headcounts to endure that all children were present. An educator was observed gently moving a child to a safer spot of the elevated play area as the child was sitting near the ladder. Licensing staff recommend that books that are torn or worn be replaced with new ones.
