General Comments

Licensing staff arrived during Quiet Time to perform a Monitoring Inspection. In the Senior Infants Room diaper changing and hand washing was observed. One Educator was performing the diaper changes while the other Educator was engaged in playing with the children. The children were dressing up and playing doctor, the Educator being the patient. Both educators were heard offering kind words and guidance to the children. "Great job washing your hands, you did it". The classroom was tidy, organized and calm as the children explored the class. Child-led art was seen throughout the classroom as well as family pictures. In the 3's Room the children were exploring different areas of the class which offered stations that aligned with their weekly theme. In one area of the room, the Educator had built a spaceship for the children with a printed and laminated control panel. The children took turns building spaceships, painting, playing with a space themed sensory bin and playdoh. The children enjoyed taking turns at each activity. The Educator was engaged with the children and sat with them during the activities, engaging in conversation. Educator praised the children and was heard using positive child guidance. "You did such a great job with your picture. You should be so proud of yourself." It is evident there are pre-planned activities that are based off the interest of the children. Parent Boards are up to date and visible. All classrooms had pictures and learning stories posted inside the classroom and out by the cubby area. Children's belongings were labelled and organized.
