General Comments On the day of my visit, Amanda and the children were brainstorming what they could do with large and small boxes. Amanda had mark-making supplies set out including scissors and rulers so they children could create their own blueprints to design a plan for the boxes. She read them the story "Not a Box" to extend on their interest in the boxes. I observed snack time which was oranges, whole wheat crackers, apples, and water. Children played outside and they have a wide variety of materials and different areas to explore. There are books, a well-stocked mud kitchen, a garden with lots of vegetables to harvest and taste, and many places to climb and sit. The indoor environment is also an inviting place that has a large array of interesting materials and documentation. There are a lot of photos and the children's words displayed in a number of different ways- in group books, on the wall, on paper, and online. Amanda also uses "A Week at a Glance" to communicate her purposefully planned program with parents. She has a strong knowledge of the curriculum and this is evident through her planning and documentation. I also observed positive child guidance and Amanda ensures that each child has a "voice" and can help co-create their environment and space by having choices and being independent. She is very nurturing and asks lots of questions which promotes a lot of rich conversations. Her staff file has been updated with current first aid, criminal record and vulnerable sector check.
