General Comments The Quality Assurance Monitor (QAM) was on site to conduct a monitoring inspection. During the inspection, the following elements were verified: - Staff files (checks, qualifications, required documentation etc.) - Administrative records maintained on site - Premises - Safety practices - Transportation While reviewing a newly hired staff member's file, the QAM noted that the employee does not currently hold a First Aid/CPR certificate. The administrator advised that the staff member, who has only been employed since September 15, is registered to attend a First Aid/CPR course in mid October. The administrator must provide proof of enrollment to the QAM and submit a copy of the certificate upon successful completion of the course. During the inspection, child-to-staff ratios were observed to be in compliance. Children were engaged in indoor play activities throughout the visit.
