General Comments
A monitoring inspection occurred today. Children were observed in their indoor environment, where they were actively engaged in a variety of activities. They proudly shared a book with the inspector that documented past experiences, along with the stories behind each entry. The atmosphere was calm and inviting, enhanced by the use of natural wood materials, including wood surfacing throughout the space. The washroom was well organized and located at an appropriate distance from the learning environment, supporting accessibility and supervision. The operator is currently assisting children with potty training, demonstrating attentiveness to developmental needs. The operator also expressed the children's strong interest in building activities and their enthusiasm for outdoor play. Since the previous visit, the children have expanded their outdoor exploration by continuing their worm digging project. During the inspection, another in-home centre joined for an outdoor playdate, which generated great excitement among the children. Documentation of children's learning stories was displayed in the outdoor play area, highlighting their ongoing experiences and discoveries. Indoors, the environment had been freshly painted. While most documentation had been temporarily taken down, it remained available in the children's documentation books, ensuring continuity of record-keeping. All fire drills were properly recorded, and attendance records were reviewed and found to be complete.
