General Comments When I arrived the children in the RBC room had arrived and were having free play. Following this, everyone sat in the reading corner and read a book together and the educator had set up three invitations for play with learning activities and arts and crafts. Many of the children's art projects were on the walls. There is evidence of pre-planned programming. The educator was observed saying please and thank you when speaking to the children. When I arrived, in the RBC room, one educator was sitting at a table with a child and was on her cell phone. When she saw me, she put her cell phone in the front of her pants. Staff members need to be engaged with children and not be on their cell phones and there is no need for an educator to walk around the classroom with their cell phone in the front of their pants, the cell phone can be put on a shelf or table to be used for emergencies only. In the JD Irving room, the children were playing when I arrived. There was a new educator being trained today. Around 3 pm, the older school age children arrived. There is varied and sufficient quantity of materials for the children. There was a hockey play area set up in the back of the room. The children were playing hockey and a staff member was monitoring the game and manage conflict among children. The other staff were at the table beading with some children. I recommend for renewal.
