General Comments
Educators and children actively contributed to the inspection process today. The preschool children are exploring topics of interest and their learning is being enhanced with props and materials that are set up and available for them within the interest centres. Children in all rooms were observed to be actively participating with one another and engaged in their learning environments. The school age children communicated excitement to be here for the whole day (no school today--professional learning day). A variety of styles of documentation are being used to directly support the children's learning. Displays of the children's art are beautiful additions to the rooms. The children's portfolios are up to date with current entries. Furthermore, a focus on literacy development is evident throughout the children's learning environments. There was a balance of indoor and outdoor play today and the children appeared to transition smoothly during this time. The indoor play area materials and equipment were clean and well organized; therefore, making the children's space very pleasant and inviting. Outdoor play space: The play house requires new cedar shingles and painting in the spring. Also, the outdoor space at the back of the building where the school age children play requires work to be completed on the
