General Comments

The children in this group treat each other with respect and kindness. The educators speak to the children in a kind manner and ask engaging questions. Many meaningful conversations were observed. The children went outside to play in the fresh snow this morning.

The learning environment has a wonderful variety of materials accessible to the children and is divided in different interest centers. What a fantastic science center! Many art materials and mark making materials are accessible around the room. The room is very well maintained and very organized.

There is evidence of purposeful planning documented throughout the room and in each child's portfolios.

It is evident that hand washing is part of the daily routine.
