Comments: The outdoor play area is well maintained, but a monthly outdoor play area review needs to be kept up to date every month.

General Comments When I arrived I was logged in the visitor log. The children were playing outside just before I arrived but had to go in because of the heat. Inside, the children had free play and played with blocks, dinosaurs, and they colored and some wanted to practice writing their names. There are learning stories on the wall and they include great observations about what the children are experiencing and learning. It's suggested to also write down how the children's activities and learning relate back to the curriculum. I checked all child files and the staff files. Every file contained all necessary information, checks are up to date, and the files are well maintained. I looked at the administrative files as well, and they are all up to date, except for the playground maintenance checklist, which will need to be kept up to date. The operator will do a fire drill tomorrow. I saw positive child guidance techniques on my visit such as positive reinforcement, gentle reminders, and distraction and the operator was quick to tend to the needs of the children. She showed kindness and caring with each child.
