General Comments Upon arrival there were a variety of activities happening in the two rooms. The infant educators were sitting on the floor playing with the children. In the preschool room some of the children were doing a craft activity at the table. They were glueing cut up pieces of paper to make apples and leaves. Other children were playing the magnetic tiles, building a tall tower. Lunch boxes were set up on another table so the children could sit and eat their snack when they wanted to. When a child did decide to eat their snack, an educator would sit at the table with them. New materials have been added the rooms. A kitchen set and child size couch and comfy chairs. Activities are planned by the month and are posted on a white board in the classroom. Materials are stored on low open shelves, so the children have easy access to them. One child was observed going to the craft section to look for pompoms so she could throw the pompoms at the web made with masking tape. The goal was to get as many pompoms to stick to the masking tape. During the visit the educators were engaged with the children; making crafts, reading stories and participating in whatever activities the children chose to play. This consisted of building with lego, playing with dolls and cooking in the play kitchen. As parents came to pick up their child, the educators would give them a quick rundown on how their child's morning went. Everything seemed to run smoothly during the visit.
