General Comments

Children has just finished snack and were engaged in some free play activities when I arrived. The operator offered to read them a story, but the children did not want to read one at the time. They decided to build a bridge with green painters tape and popsicle sticks. The bridge spanned from one table to another. Once the bridge was built the children drove the cars on it.
The children's artwork is posted on the walls in the room and at the porch entrance so parents can see it during drop off and pick up times.
During outdoor time the children marked on the pavement and doorstep with chalk and then went to the back yard to slide on the hill.
Proper hand washing procedures were observed during the visit. The operator has taught the children to sing the alphabet song while washing their hands.
Children's files were reviewed. All contained the required documents.
Please remember to complete the monthly fire drills as the one for February was not recorded.
The children seem content and familiar with the daily routine of the facility.
