General Comments

The children were building with magna-tiles and wooden blocks when I arrived. While the children were playing the operator updated me on the activities she and the children had been doing during the past few months. The facility has been busy with a Halloween party, taking a trip to the Military Museum to celebrate Remembrance Day, apple picking, and they visited a dairy farm. During outdoor playtime the children played both independently and in group play whether it was digging a tunnel in the sand, playing on the swings or in the boat. When the children came in for lunch, they took off their outdoor clothes, washed their hands, grabbed their lunch bag and started to eat their lunch. While eating lunch the operator read two stories to the children. "I just ate my Friend" and " Grumpy Monkey" The operator promotes an environment that encourages independent behavior, giving the children the time to express how they feel by using their words. This was observed when one of the children got upset in the outdoor play space when they were trying to do something and were getting frustrated. The children are comfortable in the environment and a respectful relationship between the operator and children.
