General Comments

When I arrived for my visit, children were playing outdoors. They gave me a tour of their "Magical Forest and Jungle." Lynne has worked very hard to create both indoor and outdoor environments that allow for many imaginative opportunities and connections to the curriculum. There are learning invitations and centres set up throughout the spaces and an abundance of materials for children to choose from.

Children were proud to show me how they could ride their bikes and how they have been practicing all the new skills- pushing off and getting over the bumps on the pavement, steering and turning corners, and pedaling with their feet. Lynne gave them lots of praise and we discussed how she likes to use experiences like this to allow the children to become independent, use their gross motor skills and problem solve. Another example of this is how the children navigate through the forest and go through the obstacle course.

Lynne has very strong child guidance techniques and shows such genuine care for the children she cares for. She is attentive and thoroughly engaged.

She had some new children start this Fall and is planning her programming around "Me, Myself and I" so she can learn more about the families and their cultures. There was documentation and learning stories posted to reflect both the children's interests and the programming from September and October.

All covid protocols are in place and being followed.
