General Comments

The operator has purposefully planned the week around chipmunks and squirrels. This stemmed from the children's interest on the animals they are seeing in the outdoor play space.

Children enjoyed helping hide peanuts and looking for the chipmunk and squirrel outside. The operator enthusiastically shares her love of nature with the children. Ample time was provided to explore sounds, textures, and the different spaces she has created in the wooded area adjacent to the yard. The mud kitchen was well-stocked with a large variety of scoops, muffins pans, bowls, tongs and strainers.

Once back inside, children used the washroom and washed hands. One child started potty training today and words of encouragement and praise could be heard.

Before lunch, the operator read a story to the children in a reading corner that has a rug, pillows, and small chairs with blankets.

Positive child guidance was observed throughout the morning. The operator asked open ended questions, had patience, took interest in the children's imaginative play and allowed for time for transitions. She used a soft, kind tone when helping the children share materials.

Both the indoor and outdoor environments are whimsical and cozy and allow for the children to access many different materials and resources.

All files and records were organized and easily verified.

Licensing staff recommends for renewal.
