General Comments The center is clean and organized and has a variety of materials for the children to play with. It appears that this is an active program, and extensive planning by the educators is evident. The educators display positive child guidance and they appear to be flexible in their programming, depending on the children's interests. On the day of my visit, the children were playing outside in the morning, and in the afternoon they were doing experiments, problem solving activities, and making creations out of different materials.
