General Comments

Upon licensing staff arrival, there was a Birthday celebration taking place for the Operator with additional non-registered children in attendance and two adult friends.

During hours of operation, the home is considered a business and Operators are responsible for understanding their legal responsibility in operating an ELC home facility. Also, during operating hours, frequent visitors, that are not parents, are required to have completed a criminal record check and/or check with Social Development. The registered child profiles were verified and required documentation was present, although there were additional non-registered children in attendance who did not have a file, parent consents etc. Please ensure that all children in attendance during operating hours have completed child profiles on site.

In the main play space, there was plenty of age-appropriate play material such as Lego, Barbies, a large doll house, boardgames, a wooden kitchen and art supplies. In the entry way, children's belongings were organized and hung up on hooks and the parent board was visible with required documentation. The outdoor space was kept nicely with plants and a storage shed for extra play material. Material such as a basketball net, balls, a small play climber, tennis rackets, an outdoor art cart, a sand box and a separate space for water play were in good condition.

The Operator was caring and kind towards the children. Positive words of encouragement were heard and the promotion of independence with clean up was observed after lunch. The children were also observed enjoying creative play and free time with peers.

Licensing staff recommends for renewal.
