General Comments
Children were engaged in different activities during the afternoon. Educators have planned a pirate themed week and children had finished creating pirate ships that they plan to sail in the brook later in the week. Due to the thunderstorm, the children could not have their picnic snack outside so educators adapted their plan and set out picnic blankets in the lunchroom. After snack, children listened to a pirate story. The educator has compiled a collection of various pirate books so there is a different one to read every day. Child files were checked, and all consents and information are included. Educators remained patient with the children when the noise level rose, and the children became overly excited for the thunderstorm. Educators spoke to children at their level and provided ample time for transitions, including time warnings.
