General Comments
The children's learning environment was set up with props and materials and ready for their arrival after school. Once the children arrived, it was evident that they were familiar with the routine. They circulated freely throughout the interest centers and became engaged in a variety of activities based on their interests. The children reported that they look forward to coming each day after school and they were very forthcoming about their favorite activities that they enjoy participating in. A balance of indoor and outdoor play. Discussed the value in maintaining a programming binder and the children becoming involved in the documentation process.
