General Comments At the time of my arrival, the children were just returning from a fire drill that the school had. It was the first fire drill of the year and the educators said the children did a great job. I was signed in before entering the classroom and I noted that the attendance was kept up to date. The center seems to be following all COVID guidelines well. I also noted all required postings are displayed just outside of the classroom. The first thing I noticed when I entered was that the center was set up very well. There were various centers with lots of materials accessible for the children. I looked at the newest room that was also added to the licence. This is my first time seeing this room and it was also set up well with lots of age-appropriate materials for the older school age children. I saw some art made by the children drying on racks and on the desk. Art supplies are accessible to the children and the children can choose to make creations with different materials provided. The educators told me that they plan the program by using webbing and by observing and documenting the children's interests. It appears in line with the NB curriculum Framework and I will look at more programming and documentation during my next visit. I saw lots of positive child guidance by the educators. They were actively involved in activities with the children. They had conversations with the children and demonstrated active listening. They also set limits respectfully with gentle reminders and explanation, and showed patience and kindness to all the children. At the time of my visit the program seemed to be running very well.
