General Comments When licencing staff arrived, the children were in the outdoor play space. It was slightly raining so some of children were collecting water from the rain gutter from the building and dumping it to make a river through the play space. A couple of the other children were at the ribbon/string station that was attached to the fence. They were tying knots with the strings. According to one child " it was going to take two days to untie all the knots." The transition from the outdoor space to the classroom was smooth. As the children entered the building, they removed their outdoor clothing and went to the bathroom to change into dry clothes and wash their hands. As the children got changed, they went to the carpet area to quietly play until everyone was ready for to eat lunch. As the children ate, the educator read two stories. "Hugs" by Robert Munsh and "The Gruffalo Child" by Julia Donaldson. After lunch the children went to various centers in the room to play. The most popular areas were blocks, lego and crafts. The classroom is clean and organized. The soft lighting, plants and natural items give the room a warm welcoming feeling.
