General Comments

A Monitoring Inspection was completed this afternoon. School aged children were observed during outside play. Children were observed playing tag, playing hockey, creating artwork, and creating and experimenting with hockey stick pathways and balls. Children were observed smiling, laughing, and sharing with their peers. Positive Child Guidance Techniques were observed - operator provided appropriate supervision, operator used positive language, operator offered the children the opportunity for a new activity, and operator set reasonable limits and guidelines that made sense to the children. While the children played outside, QAM observed the inside environment. It was organized and cozy. Several well-defined learning / play areas were observed. Several forms of documentation were also observed throughout not only the inside environment but the garage area as well.
