General Comments

When licensing staff arrived, children were spread throughout the centre. The updates to the porch were evident from the reduced light from windows however, the temperature in the room was warm and inviting. The reduction of windows and increased insulation has transformed the facility allowing resources to be better spread out and providing more areas for play.

One educator was preparing a game to play with several children in the front porch. Large tables were placed for games and activities. Several children were creating comic books at one of the tables and a pair of children were creating their own comic book in the hallway space of the facility. Some children were engaged in make believe play in the cozy corner with chairs, blankets, and pillows while several children were playing with blocks, mini figures, and doll houses in the center room. The second educator moved throughout the facility checking in with children and then returned to the main room where art materials were available to create pictures for an upcoming parade. New pastels were offered to the children to create bright images and a basket had been set up to collect drawings for the parade which would be later laminated.

Both educators were observed engaged in discussions and games with children. They informed children when their parents arrived and took time to speak to the parents and say good-bye to each child. Children were provided with lots of agency to make choices and the resources are accessible and available to allow independence in their selections. When disagreements are observed by educators, they help children problem solve resolutions.
