General Comments A Monitoring Inspection occurred May 13, 2024 During the Monitoring Inspection several aspects of the childcare facility were observed and evaluated. Children were actively engaged in outdoor free play, lunchtime routines, and naptime activities, demonstrating proper handwashing practices during transitions. The environment was designed to accommodate children's needs, with accessible toilets and sinks. Educators noted the children's current fascination with snails and insects, planning to incorporate this interest into their learning by creating a terrarium. They also engaged with children through open-ended questioning, encouraging discussion and exploration of ideas. Outdoor educators played an active role in facilitating children's activities. Emergency procedures were diligently maintained, with evacuation plans posted prominently. The facility was arranged to be inviting and conducive to play, with materials displayed at eye level and a diverse selection of educational resources available. Learning centers were well-defined, promoting engagement in various activities such as building, reading, dramatic play, and science. Additionally, efforts were made to integrate nature into the curriculum, with documentation and activities extending outdoors. Various forms of documentation, including webs collaboratively created with children, were evident throughout the facility, showcasing the dynamic learning experiences provided by the educators.
