General Comments It was nap time when I arrived. Jessica and I discussed a solution for nap time as two children were watching television upstairs and 2 downstairs watching television. A good variety of up and downstairs with different resources will help break up the day as well as a quiet time for children that don't sleep but could use the break. Quiet activities such as sensory play, writing utensils and paper and books are great solutions and Jessica suggested a quiet bag. Jessica has many photos and art creations posted throughout her centre. She has a large board book collection for younger children accessible to little ones and additional storybooks and paper books are located within the room.
