General Comments Licensing staff conducted the renewal inspection. Upon arrival, some groups were engaged in free play indoors, while another group was out for a morning walk. When leaving the program for a walk, educators placed an information sheet on the door indicating where they had gone, the expected duration of the outing, contact information, and their anticipated return time. One group was engaged in an activity, during which the educator was observed documenting quotes made by the children to use in developing future activities and learning stories. The weekly theme focused on hand dexterity, and activities were planned to support and build upon this area of development. One preschool group was also observed participating in circle time, during which the educator sang songs with the children. The children then prepared to either go outdoors or returned from their walk. Following this period, it was lunchtime. The children washed their hands before eating their lunches from their labelled lunch boxes. Afterwards, the children transitioned to quiet or nap time. Staff and child files were observed to be in compliance. Fire drills are being completed monthly. Only positive child guidance practices were observed during the inspection, and ratios were maintained at all times. Licensing staff recommends the program for renewal.
