General Comments

When I arrived for the inspection, I observed the children's morning craft drying in the kitchen. The children were observed participating in indoor free play and enjoyed their morning time outdoors in the snow. The operator encouraged their independence, as much as possible, with dressing for outdoors and with practicing their motor skills while maneuvering the snow. The operator sat with and comforted the children at their level when they got upset; she actively celebrated their successes as they slid down a small snow hill, showed motor skill development, and supported their peers.

Documentation was observed throughout the centre in a variety of forms including written learning stories, photos, and artwork by the children. All children and staff files were observed to be complete and up-to-date. Documentation and paperwork were observed to be well-organized as were all required postings.

I recommend this license for renewal.
