General Comments Children were having snack upon arrival. It was pajama day at the facility. All the children were dressed in their pj's. After snack the two- and three-year-old groups went outside. There, some of the children played in the mud kitchen making cupcakes and soup. While the two- and three-year-old groups were outside, the infant group had an easter sensory bin set up with easter grass, colored rice, plastic eggs and scoops. The preschool group's sensory bin contained easter grass, moon sand, small animals and noodles. The 4- and 5-year-old group have a world map on the wall and have pinned the places that children have lived in the past. NB Curriculum is evident throughout the facility as seen by the planned programming and learning stories posted on the walls in each classroom. There are low open shelves in the rooms to give children easy access to the materials. I recommend the educators go through the books in the classrooms and remove the ripped and worn-out books. Educators were engaged with the children, sitting on the floor reading books, playing and building with the various materials. The facility seemed to be running smoothly during the visit.
