General Comments

A Monitoring Inspection was completed this afternoon. Children were observed inside, during free play. Children were observed taking part in a variety of activities. Some of these activities included: building, bracelet making, drawing, reading books, and playing "family". Several forms of documentation were observed. Each child had their own learning story posted on the wall. The learning stories were all recent. Several examples of children's artwork were also observed, and written descriptions of their drawings were included. Several well-defined learning / play areas were observed - building, arts & crafts, books, loose parts, and dramatic play. Several nature themed materials were observed in each of these areas. Educators stated that the children are presently very interested in Butterflies! Educator stated that they have ordered a butterfly kit and were anxiously awaiting its arrival. Positive child guidance techniques were observed - educators understanding childhood development, educators anticipating children's needs, educators offering choices, and educators using positive language with the children.
