General Comments

The Quality Assurance Monitor is on site for a monitoring inspection. During the inspection, the Quality Assurance Monitor was able to observe purposeful and meaningful documentation. A science experiment was conducted during the indoor play time. The Quality Assurance Monitor was also able to observe positive child guidance and positive interactions between the educators and the children.

The Quality Assurance Monitor had a discussion with the administrator to inquire about the parents access to the facility. The administrator has shared that an email was sent to the parents to invite the parents to start coming back into the facility starting today. The administrator stated that she sees the benefits of having the parents enter the facility as it creates strong and meaningful relationships between the educators and the parents and it allows the parents to be able to see all of the great things that their children are doing every day.
