General Comments

Licensing staff arrived as children were engaged in their morning routine. Child files were reviewed for newly enrolled children. All required documents were included and well organized.

Invitations to play were on the table, with several puzzles laid out that were developmentally appropriate for the children present.

Intention for the day was written on the white board and documentation of learning was visible throughout the home. The project corner has been updated since the last monitoring inspection and is a wonderful addition to the learning environment.

Transition to diapering and bathroom routine was observed and was completed safely with all children supervised and engaged.

The operator engaged in pleasant conversation with the children and asked prompting questions and waited for their responses, which promoted language development with the young children.

Positive behaviour strategies were observed throughout the inspection.
