General Comments
In the indoor environment a variety of materials are available and accessible providing choice for children in their play. Children were observed engaged in play together, building with blocks, drawing at the table, and playing a board game. The indoor environment is divided into two separate areas to accommodate physical distancing between groups. Outdoors, children were busy using materials available in the environment. They are provided with many opportunities to collaborate and be physically active. Children shared with QA Monitor how they had collected snow from throughout the field to build snowmen. Today, the snowmen were becoming snow chairs. Discussed new group log requirements- ensure contact information is added and that visitors to the facility are recorded. One garage being used as additional shelter space when children are in the outdoor environment. QA Monitor will reach out to fire and health partners to determine if it is suitable to be used for break out space. Further inspections of this space may be required..
