General Comments

Licensing staff arrived before the school-age children and observed a well-organized room equipped with a variety of age-appropriate materials. The walls were decorated with documented activities, including an "Artist's Showcase" that highlighted the children's creativity.

Upon arrival, the children immediately transitioned to outdoor play. They were actively engaged in a variety of activities, including a soccer game, drawing with chalk, using hula hoops, digging with shovels, and playing with blocks and toy cars.

Afterward, the children transitioned indoors to enjoy a snack from their lunchboxes. They practiced good hygiene habits and sat together at the table, demonstrating familiarity with their daily routine. Following snack time, some children engaged in various activities such as building with LEGO bricks, drawing, playing in the play kitchen area, playing with blocks, and reading. This was observed until it was time for parent pick-up.

Licensing staff recommends for renewal.
