General Comments

When I arrived at the Centre, the children and staff were outside.

As I walked down the hill, one staff member had her back to the children and was taking photos of the trees and the river. She then continued texting/using her phone, with her head down, up until I arrived near the door of the gate at which time, she saw me and put her phone away. Her phone was being used for non-emergency personal reasons. Staff, when in ratio, must be always supervising the children and not using their cellular phone for non-emergency personal reasons.

When the children came back inside, they sat in a circle and they read a book together, then they talked about the cold weather because it's cold and windy today and that led into a conversation about their favorite soup. The children were then provided with a color sheet on the five senses, and some choose to sit on the sofa and read books instead.

The Centre is clean and organized. Materials of all mandatory categories were present such as science, math, literacy, and art supplies. Materials are maintained, in good condition and in sufficient quantities.

The site coordinator showed me photos of the sensory activities the children did yesterday where they were provided with different sensory bins. There was a learning story on the parent board from last month's learning activities. There was also evidence of pre-planned programming.

The staff were observed speaking to the children in a respectful manner and providing positive reinforcement.

The afterschool children arrived around 12:15. Today is a hot lunch day and the children had pizza.

The playground was inspected and is compliant with all regulations.

I recommend for renewal.
