General Comments

When I arrived for the annual inspection, the preschool children were leaving for a field trip.

The afterschool children were outside and came back inside around 11:15. They did circle time and the children needed to be reminded about listening to their leaders and so they practiced "Go-Go Look Shark" with the site manager.

Afterwards the children had free play, some engaged in arts and crafts, others played with Legos and some read books in the quiet area.

The playground was inspected and meets regulation.

The play space is clean and organized and there are materials of different variety for the children. An additional staff member was seen on site cleaning and disinfecting.

The educators were walking around the play space, always engaged with the children, talking with them, playing with them, having meaningful conversations and helping with getting materials out.

Files and mandatory paperwork are organized. All documentation for licensing was easily verified.

Everything is in compliance , I recommend for renewal.
