General Comments

I attended the daycare today for a follow to my inspection. When I arrived the afterschool children were just arriving, the 2-year-old groups was getting ready for snack and the 3 and 4-year-old group was getting ready to go outside. During the time I was there, each group spent some time outside.

Both classrooms are clean and well organized. Lots of materials to meet the children interests and learning needs.

The classrooms are bright and welcoming, divided in different play sections and some of the children's arts were posted on the walls.

The outdoor playground is full of bright colors, lots of art murals, lots of toys and materials. The materials were in good condition and the playground met all the regulations.

The educators were attentive and engaged with the children. There is evidence of purposely planned and documented programming.

There were some challenges with structure and routine in both the 3/4 year old and afterschool groups, therefore, I would recommend that your Quality Assurance Monitor work with you on a routine that will work and meet the needs of your children.

When we were coming in from outside with the 3 / 4-year-old group, one child needed some additional support, therefore, this caused the other educator to be responsible for the eight other children. While we walked towards the door, one child started to run towards the parking lot. Because the educators were busy, I was forced to run after the child and intercepted him and brought him back to the group.

I would recommend that both the preschool and afterschool rooms have additional staff to ensure the safety and the needs of the children are met. Although there is a minimum ratio that must be met, ratio must be increased, if required.

General Comments

Everything is in compliance; I recommend for renewal.
